“You must be the change we wish to see in the world” ....

For most of the past year, I have often thought about what all I can do to make Jamghat a better organization. To put it in plain-speak, how can I ensure a degree of effectiveness to the extent that the maximum number of children that we interact with are influenced positively, and that further, we are able to aid them in becoming not just self-dependent & self-sufficient, but also morally ethical members of a society which is fast becoming exactly the opposite of that.

To this end, Jamghat became, at least in my opinion, a more organized and efficient place for working, as well as for furthering its objectives. We, as an organization, realized the need for a stable source of funding and therefore have decided to focus on our “Ekjut” project in a more comprehensive and specific manner. In essence, “Ekjut”, is a vocational training unit, which while benefitting street children by providing them training and stipends, will help in income generation to the extent that the finances required to run Jamghat are at least partially provided by it. Of course, in order for this to happen, we will strive to make Ekjut self-sustainable at the earliest. Here is hoping that when I write to you again next year, this particular objective would be well on its way to completion.

It would also be important for me to mention here an essential learning that Jamghat gained in the past year. We were allotted space by CWC to open another boys’ home at Ajmeri Gate, Delhi. While we managed to open and run the home for 6 months, we realized within that time itself that the problems that beset us would not allow to effectively pursue our goals. Stable funding remained one of our biggest problems. It was with this learning in hand that our focal strategy on at least a partially self-sustaining unit within the Jamghat ambit has been put in place.

While I will go onto highlight a few important milestones and events for the year 2016, let me conclude this narrative by saying that, in 2017, Jamghat as an organization will aspire towards partial self-sustenance towards funding and in doing so, create & promote its own eco-friendly “Ekjut” brand which will further, directly (by providing training &employment) and indirectly (by providing funding) help those who are in need and are willing to be helped.

Empowering Street children

Jamghat: Introduction

There are 51,000 street children in Delhi; 20% are girls. 70% are on the street despite having a home in Delhi. 50.5% are illiterate. 87% earn a living—20% as rag pickers, 15.8% as street vendors, 15% by begging. Over 50% have suffered verbal, physical or sexual abuse. Fewer than 20% have ID cards or birth certificates, and so they miss out on government schemes. Most of them are runaway children. These children live on their own on the streets without any adult support. The children are subjected to all forms of abuse and are deprived of any kind of opportunities which are beneficial for their growth and development. Many street children have never been to school and others are school drop-outs.

Established in 2003, Jamghat comprises of street children who are adolescents, young adults and dedicated team members, volunteers with a variety of skills and experiences. We are a registered NGO that aims to help street children living and working on the streets of Delhi to realize their dreams and re-join society by offering opportunities for these children and society alike to make changes in their lives. With the belief in the right of every child to have a full-fledged childhood where he/she has the right to protection, respect, opportunities and participation in his/her growth and development, we have been abiding by the principle of democracy and children’s participation in decision making as part of its program planning, monitoring and evaluation. Currently, we work at four centers – three children’s homes, Aman, Aanchal, Armaan & a day care center, Aangan for these vulnerable children. This way we are reaching out to about 75 children on a daily basis.

Who We Are

Established in 2003, Jamghat comprises of young adult professionals and volunteers with a variety of skills and experiences. We are a registered NGO that aims to help children living and working on the streets of Delhi to realize their dreams and re-join society by offering opportunities for street children and society alike to make changes in their lives.

Our Mission

(i) To provide an environment where street children can evolve as physically and emotionally healthy, self-dependent individuals, living a life of their choice.

(ii) To use street and stage theatre to nurture self confidence in the children and build awareness in society on key social issues related to street children.

(iii) To take Ekjut to the next level as a brand, to empower street adolescents and adults with artisanal skills, to mentor them in becoming financially self-sustainable long term.

Our Objectives

(i) Provide a residential program to children who are without a safe home or family;
(ii) Encourage and support reconciliation with families whenever possible;
(iii) Connect street children and the larger population through volunteerism and theatre;
(iv) Build volunteer and staff capacity to understand and address issues concerning street children;
(v) Create an environment where street children are respected as individuals working for their livelihood.
Our Creative Beginning

In 2003, Action Aid India forwarded a grant to design a play about life on the streets. Fourteen street children came together with theatre artists Amit Kumar Sinha and Lokesh Jain, and their lives were forever changed. The play was performed for Prince Charles and was such a success that it travelled in India and abroad for the next 3 months.

The experience nurtured self-confidence and a feeling of capability in the children. They realized this and refused to return to the streets. Despite lack of funds, they decided to live together and continue spreading awareness through theatre. Jamghat, a lively gathering, was thus born.

From this unplanned beginning, Jamghat has grown into the holistic organization it is today.

Our Homes

Residential homes for street children where they are sheltered and nurtured 24x7. Jamghat strives to provide the best of comfort and facilities for these children - it’s not only material comfort but also emotional wellbeing. Friendship with other inmates, healthy and safe living, caring house mothers, education in good schools, time for play and recreation, medical care, individual counseling, tutors, dance and art teachers etc. are ensured in all our homes.
Jamghat runs two different homes. Aman, Aanchal and a check in center Aangan. In this year we open another home. Its name is Armaan Home.
Aman – Children’s’ Home for Boys

Aman is a supportive home situated for 15 boys. The boys are aged between 7-18 years who come from a variety of social backgrounds. Basic amenities including schooling or vocational training are provided to all the residents. Aman seeks to provide not just materialistic comfort, but also allow care and attention to seep into a sheltered environment through interactions and exposures, various kinds of therapies and of course the joy of living and growing up together.

The boys at Aman gradually learn the importance and the consequence of the choice they have made with regards to refusing drugs and alcohol, taking care of their own hygiene and learning to be become better human beings. During this process, the boys are also encouraged to reconcile with their families. Counseling helps the children reconcile with their families, past, to also deal with conflict. Jamghat also regularly talks with the families of the children to reunite them whenever possible.

As arts, i.e. theatre, was itself one of the founding factors of Jamghat, at Aman children are constantly exposed to their own creative side. Regular short and long-term classes in music, dance and various other arts are a staple part of the children’s activity list.

Aman is the first children’s home that Jamghat established, and more than 10 children who spent some of their reformative years here are now earning their own livelihood honestly. Aman is now a fully recognized children’s shelter home by the CWC, Govt. of Delhi.
Aanchal – Children’s Home for Girls

Modeled on the lines of the boy's home (Aman), Aanchal is a girl's home in Saidullahab, Saket. It houses 11 girls aged between 7-18 years.

The girls in Aanchal, very much like the boys of Aman come from the lower economic strata of society albeit with different social backgrounds. In Aanchal, these girls are provided with basic amenities, healthcare and counseling. Formal or vocational education is also imparted, either through public schools or through training institutions.

The girls in Aanchal attend regular schools. The girls are provided with music and dance sessions, which not only help them to get social exposure but also build their confidence.

Counseling sessions have helped the girls to reconcile with their past and overcome their problems. Counselors, staffs and volunteers have immensely helped the girls overcome their fears and build their self-esteem and confidence. As with Aman, the girls are encouraged to talk about their families, to understand the cause of conflict and consider reconciliation.

Aanchal is a fully recognized children’s shelter home by the Child Welfare Committee, Govt. of Delhi. The girl’s home Aanchal is a friendly and vibrant place. The home had 11 girls at beginning of the FY 15-16 and at present there are fourteen girls. The girls attend regular school and receive additional help through tuition and counseling by trained educators. Of the fourteen girls one girl Saira Bano, who was rescued from a family in South Delhi where she was being forced to work on very low wages came to Aanchal for a short term stay and has been since restored to her parents in Assam. Komal and Fiza are sisters aged 13 and 9 respectively joined Aanchal for long term stay. Both the girls have got admission into a regular school.

Aangan: Day Care Centre

A day care center situated at Jama Masjid. It is a program where 40 – 50 children gather every morning under a roof. The children here spend the night on the streets and as such Jamghat’s aim was to provide, for at least the majority of the day, an environment with basic amenities and healthcare, a place where they can feel safe while also receiving formal and non-formal education. Group activities are also conducted to foster a sense of companionship amongst their own self.

Aangan functions 6 times a week between 10 am and 6 pm. Volunteer interaction is quite high here, various workshops and sessions are conducted on a wide array of topics ranging from HIV, Sexual Abuse, Art and Theatre; Cricket and Movie Outings are also organized.
Doctors from Max India Foundation come to provide professional medical assistance to the children every month. Through this center, we are also in touch with the community and try to spread awareness through street plays, regular interactions and night walks.

Education has been a very important tool in empowering these children. Our educators provide regular non-formal education in the center to all children. We also try to enroll regular children in public schools as well as National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS).

Our very own kitchen in this center, started in 2012, with the help of our friends & supporters, this has enabled us in providing three meals every day to our children at the center. Our own kitchen has ensured healthy, tasty and hygienic food right on time and also adequate in amount.

Armaan Home for Boys (New Home)

We had started a new home at Ajmeri Gate in Old Delhi. We proposed this idea (opening of a new shelter) to Bipin Rai (DUSIB) and got a shelter from SPYM. As Jamghat entered its 14th year, we opened a new home for children - Armaan in May 2016. Armaan was a home for 20-25 boys between the age group 6 to 18, who earlier lived on the streets without any adult support. These are the children who regularly came to our day care center at Jama Masjid. They were confronted by a large number of problems. Poor health is a chronic problem of street children. They live and work amidst trash, animals and open sewers. Not only they are exposed and susceptible to disease, they are also unlikely to be vaccinated or receive medical treatment. In fact, growing up in an environment generally regarded as dangerous, they incur considerable risks. These children don’t have access to a healthy and sufficient diet.
Jamghat aims at bringing these children back to the main stream. We work towards providing them enough opportunities to be able to lead a dignified life. One of the major challenges is to counsel the children and make them believe that they are wanted and cared for. We believe that children should have access to education as it is a fundamental right that can have a dramatic impact on their future. Education is also key to long lasting and sustainable development. Much of our work revolves around ensuring children have access to education as well as making sure they are aware of their basic human right.

Our major achievements have been that all the children in the home at present have adjusted very well. All children are going to school, and have regular tuition classes in their respective home with the help of tutors / volunteers. They are enjoying this process of learning. As our priority is the well-being of these street children, it’s a great achievement for us to see them developing psychologically and physically in a healthy manner.

Study time.... Armaan home with their teacher Sumit....
Armaan home children at a "Yoga Session" with Mr. Anil Piplani... thank you sir for spending your precious time with our children!

Counseling in Jamghat

The children from Aanchal and Aman had regular counseling sessions with staff from Parwarrish organization working on issues of children. These sessions helped children deal with emotional issues and their stresses related to school. Parwarrish also did group sessions among children to resolve their conflicts. Counseling sessions initially seemed to make a positive impact on children’s emotional well-being but later it was observed that children were not really benefitting emotionally or academically from these sessions, hence Jamghat had to discontinue the sessions with Parwarrish.

Jamghat has partnered with Parwarrish, an organization working on parenting and childcare, for counseling and other support therapies for children of Aman and Aanchal homes.
In the month of February, 2017 Ms. Sushma joined as counselor of Jamghat. She is counseling the children in Aanchal, Aman and Aangan homes once a week.

Night Walks – Creating Experiential Learning:

Jamghat organizes a walk into the life of street children around JAMA MASJID and OLD DELHI AREA. The aim of the project is to generate awareness about street children living in Delhi and to help them in living a life of their choice in a healthy way. The program is undertaken during the night when most of the people finish off their day’s work and recede back to their secure homes, and these children are left alone on the streets to battle through the evils of the night. Their night life offers them many difficulties rendered through their exposed surrounding. It is then, that their true nature of surviving in such a non-conducive environment is brought to life. We interact with them and increase our awareness about them and their life. The main objective is to understand and build compassion towards the difficulty of being a street child.

Jamghat conducts complimentary 2 hour Night Walks with school and college students, foreign volunteers, other organizations. Jamghat has also distributed blankets during winters to homeless people.

Theatre is important for healthy brain development. It is through theatre that children at a very early age, engage and interact in the world around them. Learnings from Activities
Our children learnt so many creative things from the activities conducted at Jamghat. They participated in activities such as Painting, Art & Craft to enhance their skills. They also participated in trainings organized by Jamghat such as Self-Defense for their physical and safety empowerment. Volunteers also helped them in their studies and also helped to improved their English. We have done theater workshops for awareness on social issues such as Swach Bharat Abhiyaan, Child Marriage, Save The Girl Child which helped to create awareness in people. Overall, it was a great and meaningful year for everyone. We enjoyed a lot and kids are looking forward to the happenings of the coming year!

Internships: We have collaborated with the International Management Institute and different college students to provide Internship opportunities for 2 interns thus far. We hope to encourage voluntary internships for eager students and volunteers to work on various projects within Jamghat for a certain period. We will provide a certificate to acknowledge the same, thus inviting hundreds of youth into actively engaging in matters related to street children.

Theatre & Campaign: Using our experience and comfort with theatre as a medium, we will develop new street plays on specific issues that female street children face, adding to our existing portfolio of plays on female feticide, dowry, and girl-child issues. These plays will be performed for corporate houses, organizations, within universities and colleges and even on the street, continuing to create awareness about the realities of being a street child.
On 3rd October, 2016 - Jamghat’s children and staff participated in campaign “children living on the streets deserve a better life’ at SELECT CITYWALK MALL. A campaign by Action Aid.

4th December, 2016 - Children from the entire three centers performed a play at India habitat Centre on the matter related to "My Safety My Education MY RIGHT for Care India. They also perform a play at Dilli Haat on the topic of ‘Every eight-minute campaign’ with Ipartner.

Workshops: Theatre workshops build a feeling of capability in participants to bring their voice forward with confidence and clear words. By using female issues as a topic for the workshop, there is a 3-fold learning: 1. the participants gain knowledge about the female street children.
2. They develop their own opinions about the topic while working with them.
3. They gain the confidence to speak up in their personal spheres and hopefully also in more public places.
Success Stories of Jamghat

Naseema- Aanchal Home for girls

Naseema joined the Jamghat Family in July 2015, and at 16 years of age she quickly found her footing in Aanchal home. Naseema is an incredibly bright and dedicated young woman, and Jamghat is the perfect place for her to grow and develop even further.

When Naseema thinks about her past, she feels very sad. She had a hard life on the street, living with her mother in Jama Masjid where she often felt unsafe with many bad people around. Naseema has spent time at other shelter homes throughout her childhood, but she is very grateful to Jamghat for giving her the opportunities to do her best- she believes Jamghat will help her dreams come true!

Naseema is incredibly happy in her new home at Jamghat, living with her newfound sisters and aunties at Aanchal home. She enjoys being outside, playing and running around. She loves dancing to music; it makes her forget all burdens, so she can live in the moment.

Naseema enjoys going to school –History, English and Music being her favorite subjects. She is very thankful to Jamghat for providing the opportunity to educate herself despite all the odds! Jamghat has shown Naseema that life is full of potential, she is able to do anything her heart desires and will never have to endure street life again!
Naseema loves to make new friends - a great quality to have at Jamghat. She also prides herself on being very understanding and adaptable. Naseema’s greatest dream is to be a famous makeup artist, a dream that reflects her beautiful and creative personality. She wants to travel the world to see and learn about other cultures, all while living a full and wonderful life. She has done her Beautician’s Course from Mahila Mangal Charitable Trust, Madangir, New Delhi. She has done her Makeup Advance Course from Bharti Taneja’s ALPAS Academy of Makeup, Hair & Beauty, Lajpat Nagar, New Delhi. She has done her class 10th studies from Correspondence (NIOS). Now she is working at Bengaluru with a monthly wage of INR 20,000.
Bano (Name change) is a 14 year old girl from Dantala, Bongaigaon, Assam. She was rescued by Butterflies on 21st July, 2016 from Vasant Kunj, New Delhi. She came to Delhi six months back and she joined Aanchal home on 22nd July, 2016. When the girl was rescued, she was in trauma. She was unable to talk, and continuously crying. That day, the counselor of Aanchal home was not available, so the coordinator of the home, Anita Mahato counseled her. After sometime Bano stopped crying and told Anita her story. She said that she comes from a very poor background. Her father is a rickshaw puller and mother works as a domestic help. She was hired for domestic help in Delhi. The family took her to take care of their child only, and they offered her father a pay of INR 2000 per month. And they told her father that they will help her (Bano) to continue her studies too.

But when she came to Delhi, everything changed! The couple who had hired her, started torturing her. They made her do all the domestic work and cooking too. As she didn’t know how to cook, the couple used to beat her. They paid only INR 1000 to her parents. They told her that if she doesn’t work properly, they will never send her back to Assam. So, she used to work from 8 am to 1 am (late night). She didn’t even get proper food!

She used to be sad when she come to Aanchal home; sometimes she refused to eat food also. But after sometime she mixed up with the other girls. She also participated in all the activities at the home. Jamghat contacted her parents, and allowed her to speak with them regularly. She stayed in Aanchal home from 22nd July to 2nd November, 2016. After that, Butterflies restored Bano to her parents. She safely reached home on 7th November, 2016. Bano and her parents called us (Jamghat) and expressed deep gratitude.
Now BANO is with her parents in her home town. She calls up from time to time at Aanchal home, and speaks with the resident girls.  She said that “I am happy with my family, but I also miss my Aanchal family!”
